

Ask Volunteers For Sky Watch

The use of radar is limited and for detection of planes flying at altitudes of 4000 to 6000 feet the human eye and ear is needed, members of Upper Michigan Civil Defense units were told here yesterday.

Ten Upper Michigan areas were represented at the session here with state defense officials. Paul Wohlen, of Escanaba, U. P. civil defense coordinator, was chairman of the meeting.

Attending from the state office were Col. Edward Gillette, deputy state director; Homer D. Higbee, Frank E. Carey and Harold M. Harvey. About 25 men represented various communities in Upper Michigan, which is Region 5 in Civil Defense organization.

Most of those present were county and city civil defense directors from Iron Mountain, Ishpeming, Marquette, Negaunee, Flat Rock, Gladstone and Escanaba communities.

Flat Rock Post Praised

In Upper Michigan the important thing is to protect strong points, such as Sault Ste. Marie and Escanaba, for their mining and transportation facilities. Col. Gillette said. He outlined plans for localities, so that civil defense procedure in the state is uniform, and to provide for a "neighborly exchange of help" in event of disaster.

Escanaba is expected to furnish engineering help for clearing roads etc., and to operate heavy equipment. Each community prepares its own program in accord with plans for mutual aid in the area. While here state officials reviewed what facilities communities have, to secure a file of resources for use by the state coordinator in assigning groups if disaster should occur.

The importance of the ground observers corps was stressed yesterday by Frank Carey. The Flat Rock GOC post which is operated by 32 men and women under direction of Fred Marengier, 24 hours a day, was praised by the state officials.

Consider Biological Warfare

Higbee discussed welfare coordination plans and Harvey spoke on the necessity for a public information officer in each community to disseminate information from a central reporting unit.

The meeting here was preceded by similar sessions in Sault Ste. Marie and Ironwood. Later, other regions of Michigan will have similar meetings. Some counties in the northern part of the lower peninsula are included in Region 5 and met at Sault Ste. Marie.

Pen Pal Of 38 Years Pays Visit To Northland Man

Kenneth Stephens, of Northland, has been visited the past few days by a "pen pal," from Canada, with whom he began corresponding in 1914.

Stephens' friend is Jack L. Morrow, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Can., a former school teacher and principal, who now is employed by the Manitoba government in liquor control work.

Morrow saw Stephens' name in a Canadian paper shortly before World War I, and wrote to him. For a number of years the two exchanged postcards and notes, until Morrow entered the Canadian military service where he served two years.

Made Cider

The Northland resident, who has a combined tree and cattle farm there, met his friend at the bus last Saturday, and today saw him off.

Stephens recognized the Manitoba resident immediately, from a description that Morrow had given of himself. While he was here the two roamed in the woods at Northland, and Stephens showed the Canadian how he operated his tree and cattle farm.

Morrow says he particularly got a thrill when they picked apples and made 2 1/2 gallons of cider.

"That was something I have never seen done," he observed. The Manitoba man also enjoyed watching deer come into the Stephens' orchard to eat apples each night and noticed that the animals didn't harm the trees.

Invited To Canada

Beech and ironwood trees growing in the Northland area were new to Morrow. He says he learned much of tree cultivation from his "pen pal."

The Winnipeg man is the only one of 20 "pen pals" who have continued correspondence over the years since 1914.

As he left today to return to his family in Winnipeg, Morrow left a standing invitation with Stephens for a visit in Canada.

"If you've just been across the border at the Soo, Canada is really going to seem like a very different place to you," Morrow told his friend. Enroute home, Morrow plans to visit near International Falls, Minn., with a former Army "buddy."

Two Escanaba Men Will Be Ordained Priests Next June

Two Escanaba men, the Rev. Messrs. Joseph Callari and Joseph Charlebois, recently received the Diaconate at solemn ceremonies at St. John's Provincial Seminary in Plymouth, Mich.

The Most Rev. Allen J. Babcock, D. D., auxiliary bishop of Detroit, was celebrant at the ceremonies.

Reverend Callari is the son of Mrs. Katherine Callari, 327 South 10th street, and Reverend Charlebois is the son of Mrs. Joseph Charlebois, 600 South 14th street.

A total of 43 men received second minors, Exorcist and Acolyte; four young men were ordained sub-deacons, and 27 were given Diaconate at the ceremonies Sept. 14.

The Escanaba men will be ordained to the priesthood next June. School authorities in the state report there are 926 priests aspirants in the state of Michigan.

Literature Course For Teachers Will Start October 10

Dr. Mildred Majors of Northern Michigan College of Education will teach a literature course at Gladstone beginning Oct. 10. Hagle Quarnstrom, county school superintendent, announces.

Arrangements for the course, Literature 206, which is particularly for teachers seeking validation of certificates, were made with Dr. Max P. Allen, director of the NMCE extension service.

The usual fee will be charged, and those taking the three-hour course will receive extension credit.

Interested persons are asked to call 1304 or report to the first meeting, at 5 p. m., Oct. 10, in Gladstone High School.

Plan Catholic Teacher Meet

The Marquette Diocesan Catholic Education Association will hold a conference at St. Michael's School, Marquette, Oct. 2-3 in conjunction with the annual MEA meeting scheduled for the same dates at Northern Michigan College of Education, Rev. Fr. O'Neil D'Amour, executive secretary of the Diocesan Board of Education, has announced.

Sr. M. Virginia, C.S.J., Bishop Baraga High School, Marquette, is the general chairman of the conference. Sr. Madonna, C.S.A., Holy Family Orphans Home, Marquette, is in charge of the housing arrangements. Meals are being arranged by Sr. M. Reginald, G.S.F., of St. John's School, Marquette. Sr. M. George, superior of St. Michael's School, Marquette, is in charge of the program.

A special section on music is under the direction of the Rev. Fr. Otto J. Sartorelli, Cathedral Choirmaster. Special instructor is Don Vitry.

Discussions will be held on both the secondary and elementary levels.

On the secondary level teachers will hear the Very Rev. Msgr. Edmund Goebel, Ph.D., superintendent of schools, Archdiocese of Milwaukee and Very Rev. M. J. McKeough, Ph.D., Dean of studies.

Nationwide Newspaper Promotion Drive Begins

Newspapers throughout the country will carry forward for a second year the advertising campaign in their own columns promoting the newspaper as a news and advertising medium.

Some 875 newspapers, representing a daily circulation of more than 40,000,000, carried the 1951-52 campaign, it was announced by Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler of the New York Times, who has been reappointed chairman of the Special Advertising Campaign committee.

Ads will continue to run at least once a month. First ad in the new series is scheduled for October. The slogan of last year's drive, "The newspaper is always "first with the most," is being continued. And, as last year, the basic theme is that the newspaper brings you the whole story, fast.

The Whole Story

The 1952-53 series will be given continuity by the repeated use of the headline, "This is a picture—but not the full story!", together with a provocative news photo. Proofs of the first ad were sent this week to newspapers participating in the campaign. The attention-catching picture shows a group of huddled figures lying on the floor along the walls of a long hall.

"Until you read these words," says the copy, "you might not guess that this is a school corridor during a recent air-raid drill. Until you read further you might not realize that this is only one brief moment, one small aspect, of a much bigger story . . . If pictures or headlines or flash announcements could adequately tell you what you want to know, you would not read newspapers. As it is, just about everybody reads newspapers every day.

" . . . Only the newspaper can bring you the full story as soon as your appetite is aroused. Fast, without delay. This goes for advertising, too. . . . The newspaper ad carries the brass-tacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself. . . ."

Cooperative Effort

In a letter to newspapers announcing continuation of the concerted drive, Gen. Adler termed it "one of the greatest single cooperative efforts that newspapers have ever launched for themselves."

"For the first time on a nationwide, coordinated basis," he said, "newspapers have sold newspapers as an advertising medium through the most powerful promotional medium available—their own columns."

Objective of the campaign, as outlined by the committee, is "to stimulate enthusiasm for the newspaper as the number one, basic advertising medium" among "all people" who ultimately influence media selection.

The audience, according to the committee, includes retailers and chain store buyers, as influences on the manufacturer; retailers as advertisers; local sales representatives of advertisers, such as wholesalers, salesmen, divisional managers, etc.; associates of these influential people in all walks of life; and, finally, all consumers, as a constant reminder to them that "the newspaper is the No. 1 place to learn what's on sale, so that they turn to the newspaper ads more and strengthen the newspaper still further as a well-selling medium."

Senator Nixon's Speech Will Give Strength To Republicans

SEN. Richard Nixon's dramatic radio and television report to the nation about his financial affairs and his explanation of the $18,000 expense fund left no room for any further doubt that the California senator would remain on the Republican ticket as Gen. Eisenhower's running mate.

Nixon literally bared his soul in explaining his finances to 160 million Americans. He did it candidly and with a sincerity that is certain to be reflected in increased popularity by American voters. He said that none of the money was ever used by him personally . . . and he said it convincingly to the satisfaction of fair-minded people.

If there were fears that Nixon would be forced to quit the ticket because of the

Why Senator Taft Is "Mr. Republican"

THE hundreds of Delta County residents and others from the Upper Peninsula who had the opportunity to see and hear Sen. Robert A. Taft during the four hours of his visit to Escanaba yesterday can readily understand why the Ohio senator is so frequently referred to as "Mr. Republican".

Senator Taft represents the basic concept of Republicanism that free enterprise has made America great and has built a higher standard of living for the American people. This is a philosophy in direct contradiction to the New Deal-Fair Deal philosophy that has taken over the Democratic party in which the theory prevails that government can do things better than private enterprise.

Senator Taft talks with a sincerity and with logical deductions that are persuasive. It is understandable why he has been the leader of the Republican bloc in Congress.

The defeat of Sen. Taft in his bid for the Republican nomination at the Chicago convention undoubtedly was a hard blow for the Ohioan. But Taft has shown his greatest qualities in jumping into the presidential campaign in support of Gen. Eisenhower. In doing so, he has vastly improved the general's chances of victory in November because a serious defection of the Taft strength within the Republican party would virtually assure a Democratic victory. Sen. Taft would be among the last persons in America to desire this in view of his deep conviction that the Fair Deal brand of political philosophy is jeopardizing the freedom and the liberties of the American people.

Sen. Taft's Escanaba visit is certain to have an effect upon the Upper Peninsula election results in November.

The Doctor Says . . . Polyneuritis Is Often Symptom Of Some Infectious Diseases

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A 28-year-old reader says that she has been troubled with a condition diagnosed as polyneuritis and wants to know if it is any kin to Parkinson's disease.

This reader's concern is readily understandable, but before discussing polyneuritis the question of its relationship to Parkinson's disease can be answered with a "no."

Polyneuritis merely means inflammation and pain in several nerves. Sometimes the condition gets worse as time goes on, though this is not inevitable. Quite often, the parts supplied by the affected nerves show weakness, wasting of the muscles, pain, tenderness and often changes in sensation or feeling.

Sometimes, the pain is severe, and once in a while the interference with sensation is so great that a pin can be stuck into the skin of the affected areas without being felt at all.

There are a host of possible causes. Most of the well-known metals, such as mercury, bismuth, arsenic and lead are responsible in some cases. Vitamin-deficiency diseases, particularly beriberi, which is a vitamin "B" deficiency, and pellagra may be at fault.

Polyneuritis sometimes develops from general dietary deficiencies during pregnancy and in the presence of such general diseases as diabetes or pernicious anemia.

must be greatly reassuring to the young California senator and, of course, to Gen. Eisenhower and the Republican party. It constitutes vindication surpassing anything that even the most optimistic Nixon supporter may have anticipated. The reaction to Nixon's address has been almost completely favorable. Undoubtedly it has created many new supporters for the Republican cause.

This has been a big hurdle and Sen. Nixon has cleared it with grace and courage.

WHAT SOME 'TYPICALS' TELL (Christian Science Monitor)

This is to be a little excursion among the "typicals." They can be found only in statistics. But, like the thermometer on your front porch, they help you to bring an enormous picture down to a size you can scan with a glance. This also is to be a two-minute tour through the nation's schools, which have been opening their doors during the past week to almost 35,000,000 young Americans.

The spectacle, on the whole, is inspiring—one out of every five of all Americans actually enjoying an opportunity most of the world can only dream of. But, considering the wealth and the freedom which make that opportunity possible, September, 1952, is not without its problems.

For if you can imagine yourself as the mythical typical American school child you will find yourself in a room into which 30 youngsters like yourself crowded last year—with one more spending half his time in another room. Today you will be seeing, standing by the teacher's desk, still another youngster—a statistical pupil—and a half—waiting for a place to be found for him.

And if you can, for the moment, play the role of the typical teacher you will be learning, to your consternation, that whereas 20 teachers in your school last year presided over their several flocks of 30, there are but 19 teachers now to look after still 20 flocks of 32.

The typical school board and superintendent have their troubles, too. Five years ago they were able to keep what teachers they had from forced desertions to industry and what schoolhouses they had from coming apart at the seams by wangling, somehow, $229 per pupil from already harried taxpayers. This year that sum will buy but $223 worth of teachers, janitors, fuel, textbooks, and paper. And there are more pupils to buy for, more money to raise!

The answer is not easy. To pass some of the burden along to the federal government helps the poor community—and that is nationally important. But it does not solve the problem for the "typical" one. And the school must compete with every other community need and every conceivable kind of pressure group demand.

It boils down to putting first things first. And the fact that Americans are spending a much smaller proportion of their national income for education than they did 20 years ago may hold the key.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—General Eisenhower is scheduled to speak in Baltimore tonight in clarification of the reasons why he embraced some of the isolationists of the Republican party and tolerated such extremists as Senator Jenner of Indiana and Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin.

The inside story of the general's relations with this wing dates back to his first arrival in the U. S. shortly before the Chicago convention. At that time his personal prejudices were vigorously opposed to the GOP isolationists and extremists.

But his counselors, reminding him that he was a novice at politics, urged that he antagonize no one, but concentrate only on the goal of winning the nomination. After he was nominated, they said, there would be time to do his political weeding.

That was why the general, in his maiden address at Abilene, trod so delicately, embraced even the MacArthur wing of the party.

But in Denver last summer, Ike had another showdown with the extremists—this time over McCarthyism.

His old friend Paul Hoffman had been asked to testify against McCarthy and in defense of General George Marshall in the Benton-McCarthy libel suit. Hoffman asked Eisenhower if the testimony would be embarrassing. Ike replied that it wouldn't.

He also indicated that he might testify against McCarthy himself.

IKE IS HUSHED

This leaked back to Arthur Summerfield, Republican national chairman, who immediately went into a huddle with the general.

Summerfield pointed out that if Eisenhower opposed McCarthy he would also have to oppose Senator Jenner. And if he opposed Jenner he would also have to oppose Cain of Washington, who has consistently sided with McCarthy.

Summerfield argued at length and convincingly. In the end Eisenhower concurred.

When Ike got to Indianapolis, home of Senator Jenner, he experienced one of the most awkward moments of his life.

Jenner had made a speech on the Senate floor Sept. 15, 1950, calling George Marshall a "front man for traitors" and a "living lie."

"Either he is an unsuspecting stooge or an actual conspirator with the most treasonable array of political cutthroats ever turned loose in the executive branch of the government," said the senator from Indiana.

Eisenhower no doubt remembered, as he arrived in Indianapolis, how this same George Marshall had taken him to a map of North Africa early in World War II, without telling him anything about the proposed North African invasion.

"What do you think of it?" Marshall asked.

"It looks O. K. to me," replied the younger man.

"You'd better think so," shot back Marshall, "you're going to be in command."

ARMY FRIEND

Marshall, then chief of staff, had promoted Ike up from lieutenant colonel to lieutenant general in the space of about a year, sent him to North Africa, then on to England to command the greatest invasion army in history. And during the tug-of-war between Eisenhower and MacArthur as to whether Europe or the Pacific should get more material, Marshall always threw his weight to Eisenhower.

So Ike, now running for president, was ushered into the same room with the senator from Indiana who had called his friend and benefactor a "front for traitors" and a "living lie."

Marshall had been unable to defend himself when Jenner attacked him, for speeches in the Senate are beyond the reach of the courts or a libel suit. So Marshall's friends had hoped that General Eisenhower when he returned would utter some word in his defense.

However, he didn't. Perhaps he couldn't. Perhaps in the new role of politician he was too anxious to please his mentors, the men who coached him what to do and whom to greet.

The "gentleman from Indiana" made the most of the general's embarrassment, holding up Ike's hand while the cameras clicked, getting in front of the photographers at every opportunity. Ike moved over to another part of the platform, but Jenner followed him. Finally the general sat down.

Speaking later, he endorsed "all" the ticket in Indiana.

Note—Most people don't know that the other senator who attacked General Marshall, Joe McCarthy, also included Eisenhower in his attack. McCarthy accused Marshall of being part of a "Communist conspiracy, the world-wide web of which has been spun from Moscow." Marshall, he said, was steeped in blood. . . . His "every important act has contributed to the prosperity of the enemy." Of Eisenhower he said . . . "In all those attitudes, Eisenhower was Marshall's firm supporter."

The British Way:

No Conventions, No Machines; Britons Just Get Out And Vote

LONDON—(NEA)—An American correspondent was sent to London just before Britain's General Election last year, with orders to find out how the British electoral system ticked. He dug into the facts industriously, but he soon got baffled.

"You mean to tell me," he asked a British parliamentary expert, "that you have no primaries, no conventions, no registering of party affiliations, no county committees, no voting machines and no Electoral College?"

"That's right," said the Briton. "Then how in heaven's name can the people vote?"

"My dear chap," said the Briton. "We just vote. Usually over 80 per cent of the electorate." (In the United States it's only slightly over 50 per cent.)

The American tried again. "You say that the whole election process, from nomination to voting, takes only three weeks, that the British people don't elect their Prime Minister direct? And a month after they've voted the Government may fall and they have to vote all over again?"

"That's right," said the Briton. "Well, where's your stability?"

"I don't know," said the Briton. "I only know we've been stable for quite a few centuries."

The interview ended in mutual bewilderment. It was not till the American had seen the full extent of Britain's long-tried electoral procedure that he came to realize the end result of both the American and the British systems was a good expression of the people's will.

The two systems start off on the same foot. Every man and woman of full age is entitled to vote, provided they were residents in the voting area on the qualifying date, and their names are listed on the electoral register.

The only people who are not allowed to vote in Britain are peers, the insane, convicted criminals under sentence (though these are allowed to vote in Scotland), and anybody found guilty of corrupt practices in connection with elections—they're disqualified for five years.

From then on, the British system varies widely from the American. The U. S. votes for President by States, which in turn vote in the Electoral College. In Britain the electors vote direct for their local Members of Parliament, knowing that the head of the party which wins will become Prime Minister.

Any British man or woman over the age of 21 may become a candidate for election in any constituency—even if they have never visited that particular area of the country in their life. Britain has had a Canadian Prime Minister—Bonar Law—and at least one Cabinet Minister from Australia—Richard Casey.

Prospective candidates often have to appear before the members of the local party in a sort of eliminating competition. They are quizzed mercilessly and usually have to give a speech. Then the members vote to pick their final choice.

BRITISH VOTERS ON HORSEBACK: Candidates are limited in the use of cars, but not in any other forms of conveyance.

At every General Election there are always a few Dear Old Ladies who say to the officer at the Polls, "But Mr. Churchill's name is not on the list!" (or whoever is their choice for Prime Minister).

The name of Churchill and leaders of the other parties do not appear on the ballot papers (voting machines are not used), except in their own particular constituencies.

Under the Parliamentary system, the Government can be dismissed from office at any time at the will of the people. If defeated in a vote in the House of Commons on an issue of importance the Government resigns. A new General Election is then held.

The money which each candidate is allowed to spend for election purposes is very strictly controlled and audited.

For the day of the election, cars to transport the voters to the polls must be loaned and never hired. Each candidate is limited to one car or every 2500 voters in borough constituencies and to one car for every 1500 voters in country areas.

There is no restriction, however, on other forms of conveyance. During the last election one candidate in the Midlands used pony carts, and a llama from a local zoo, to take his constituents to the polls. Another candidate used oxen as a publicity stunt.

The most effective safeguard against corrupt and illegal practices is through an election "petition" which may be filed by any eligible voter or any person claiming to be a candidate, if he believes that malpractices have occurred. Such cases are decided by an "Election Court" composed of two Judges of the King's Bench Division of the High Court, and confirmed by a vote of the House of Commons.

After going through the ordeal of election the Member of Parliament is paid £1000 ($2800) a year on which he must pay income tax. He is also allowed special vouchers for commuting by his constituency by railroad.

That is all. Not a cent more. There are no pork-barrel projects in Britain, no patronage machines. All Civil Service and local government are completely free of Parliamentary influence. Yet there is an endless supply of Parliamentary candidates and nearly everybody who can votes.

Tomorrow: The "Secret Weapon" in British elections.

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

RUSHING THE SEASON—The partridge hunting season will not open until Oct. 1 but that makes slight difference to some of the ruffed grouse.

There was the partridge, for example, that flew right through the kitchen window and landed on the breakfast table.

This happened about 8 a. m. Tuesday at the home of Conservation Officer Robert Bessi at Rapid River. His home is near the State Highway tourist park.

The incident was the first of its kind so far this year and no doubt will be followed by other similar happenings. When a partridge starts traveling it wants to go somewhere fast.

THE BABY CRIED—The Bezziis had finished their breakfast and left the kitchen when the partridge came calling. Their young son, Eugene, was still at the table.

From the other room Mr. and Mrs. Bessi heard a crash of breaking glass. Eugene began to cry, and they rushed in to find a large partridge in the center of the table.

Glass from the window was scattered about the room and even into adjoining rooms. The bird had struck the windy window with terrific force and was fatally injured.

Only the night before Mrs. Bezzi had remarked that she would be glad when partridge season opened. She was hungry for a grouse dinner. But here was a bird for breakfast!

ON THE MOVE—There is a period in autumn when wild animals and birds go running and flying around without regard for danger. This sometimes brings them into conflict with man—their most dreaded enemy.

Escanaba folks (and Jack Eden in particular) will recall the deer that plunged through a window of his gift shop on Ludington street a few years ago.

A couple years before that a young doe wandered into the city and into a clothing store on Ludington; and not so long ago a partridge flew through the window of the Hanrahan grocery on South Tenth Street.

LAW OF NATURE—Allen Tweedy, assistant district conservation supervisor, has a theory in connection with these incidents that sounds reasonable.

It is nature's way of preserving the species, says Officer Tweedy, to scatter them in the fall when the young are big enough to care for themselves.

As if at a signal the ruffed grouse take off from the locality they have known during the summer and fly away to new haunts. Tweedy believes they may even fly "blindly" under the compulsion to vacate the old breeding and nesting ground. This would account for the numerous accidents in which the grouse is involved.

When hunting season comes the birds are scattered and difficult to find. They are ready to winter and then take up the ever-recurring process of propagation with less possibility of in-breeding.

THE LONGER SEASON—In Northern Michigan this year the hunters will have a longer season (41 days) on ruffed grouse.

The season will start Oct. 1 and the conservation department estimates one million birds will be taken by sportsmen. Although the season will be twice as long as last year, state game men believe the "available surplus" as they describe it will not be harvested.

Decision to extend the season is based on studies of prior years showing that unless the birds are taken by hunters the surplus will die during the winter months. The larger kill by sportsmen, say the game men, will not seriously deplete the breeding stock surviving to replenish woods and fields in the year ahead.

There appears to be sound reasoning behind the decision to lengthen the season. Last year 544,000 birds were taken in the 21-day season—yet the grouse population this year is higher than ever.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

SOME OBSERVATION ON GRAMMAR

Kind of a. Several months ago I explained at some length in this column how meaningless it is to remark, for instance, "I wonder what kind of a bird that is," or "What sort of an animal is that?" or "This is a kind of a cake I've never made before."

I explained that kind and sort, in such instances, meant variety, species, or class. I said also that the article a or an meant one. Thus those remarks actually say, "I wonder what species of one bird that is," "What variety of one animal is that?" "This is one variety of one cake I've never made before."

Of course, one bird is of only one species, one animal is of only one variety, and so is one cake, so the remarks, if taken at face value, actually have no meaning. But if the expressions are limited to kind of and sort of, they then make sense: "I wonder what kind of bird (what species of bird) that is," "What kind of animal (what variety of animal) is that?" and so on.

But since making that detailed explanation, I've been observing and listening. And, although none of the books on American grammar that I have says anything about it, I have come to the conclusion that either well educated American speakers and writers are extremely careless, or that future grammarians will have to accept kind of a as some "sort of an" American idiom.

Thus, in one short story, one of our leading magazines permitted a writer to say, "Tell me what kind of a man your boss is." "What kind of a plan do you have in mind," and some three or four other examples. A recent novel, perhaps unedited by its publisher, had its characters use kind of a or sort of a on every possible occasion, until I put the book down in disgust.

Canadian Visa Trio Indicted

DETROIT (P)—Three Canadians, two of them "visa expeditors" and one a sister of Canada's minister of national health and welfare, face arrest under U. S. indictments if they cross the international border from neighboring Windsor, Ont.

A U. S. grand jury indicted them here on charges of providing false bank statements and data used by other Canadians in obtaining visas for Detroit residence. Five persons who obtained entry on allegedly phony visas also were indicted.

The "expeditors" indicted were Mrs. Nicholas Steigerwald, sister of Canadian Minister Paul Martin, and Mrs. Marguerite Prest. Indicted with them was Roy H. McBride, former Windsor branch bank manager, accused of furnishing false statements required to prove immigrants will not become public charges within five years.

Martin has criticized his sister's activities publicly, and several years ago wrote U. S. immigration authorities protesting any use of his name by visa seekers.

In a separate action, Federal Judge Thomas P. Thornton sentenced two Canadian couples for using fraudulently obtained visas. He gave them a year's probation and ordered them back to Canada. If they return to this country in five years they could be jailed. They were listed as Norman and Adeline Pratt and John and Winette Menogue. All have been residing in Detroit.

TEL AVIV (P)—Opium and hashish for medical and scientific purposes are to be grown in Israel now that preliminary experiments at the Weizmann Institute at Rehovot have proved successful.

Murderer Kills Himself In Jail Grand Juries Indict 18 Second-Rank Reds In U. S. Revolt Plots

ST. JOHNS, Mich. (AP)—A 49-year-old bachelor accused in the attempted rape and murder of an 88-year-old blind woman committed suicide here this morning.

Rollie Willert, Middleton farmer, was being held in the Clinton County jail here on a first degree murder charge. He had confessed to the brutal rape attempt and murder of Mrs. Amy Harris, a neighbor.

Police said Willert used a towel to hang himself from a shower pole in the jail.

Mrs. Harris died June 5, a week after she was assaulted. Extreme shock and a crushed chest caused the death.

His confession, Willert said he knelt on the chest of the frail, 90-pound woman as she attempted to fight him off. He also admitted the attempted rape of the victim's daughter, Mrs. Fannie Hambleton 68.

Rudy Shreve Home Damaged By Fire

Fire reported to have started from a short in an electric cord today caused extensive damages to a one-story frame dwelling occupied by the Rudy Shreve family, 1601 North 9th St., and owned by Mrs. Fred Bowers.

Estimated loss to building and contents is estimated at $3,800. Only the building was insured.

Most of the family clothing and furniture was damaged or destroyed by smoke and fire.

The fire started in a front bedroom and the interior was in flames when firemen arrived. Firemen said Shreve told them he delayed calling the department because he thought he could put out the fire himself.

The fire gained headway, however, and the department was summoned after the Shreves fled the house. Interior of the house was extensively damaged.

Democratic Folly Invited Korea War, Gov. Dewey Declares

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey says the Democratic administration invited the Korean War "by two acts of supreme folly."

Dewey, urging the election of GOP nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower on a radio and television program last night, said: "They (the administration) withdrew our troops from Korea and then announced that Korea and Formosa were outside our defense perimeter."

"They might just as well have sent a telegram to Stalin saying: 'We do not want this country to stay free; you may go ahead and conquer it.'"

Lost Home Replaced

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—Neighbors have completed construction of a new four room frame house for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barrett of Munro Township to replace one destroyed by fire last December. Friends of the Munros contributed their labor. The Munros have been living in a trailer.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eighteen second-string Communist party leaders, rounded up by the FBI last week, have been indicted on charges of conspiring to advocate the overthrow of the United States government by force.

Federal grand juries yesterday returned indictments against seven in Seattle, Wash., and five in St. Louis, Mo. The six others were indicted in Detroit last Monday.

The action, announced by the Justice Department, charge violations of the Smith Act. This law prohibits the advocacy or teaching of the violent overthrow of the federal government. It provides penalties up to $10,000 fine, 10 years imprisonment, or both.

The Seattle indictment charged the seven defendants with 16 specific overt conspiracy actions. The St. Louis indictment charged the five there with 15 specific overt acts. The six indicted in Detroit

Funds For Repairs To Sugar Island Causeway Assured

LANSING (AP)—Governor William G. Milliken today said the U. S. Corps of Engineers has allocated $49,700 to repair the Sugar Island causeway in the St. Marys River near Sault Ste. Marie.

He released a telegram from Lt. Gen. Louis A. Pick, chief of engineers, announcing allocation of the money, all from federal funds "to protect the causeway from erosion" caused by high Great Lakes water levels.

The governor said he was asked by local officials to find means to protect the causeway and that he had assigned Bert Robb, chairman of the Inter-Agency Committee on High Water Damage, to investigate.

Robb said that the roadway on the causeway was in "extreme danger" of being washed into the water. He said that a school bus making daily trips across the Causeway pointed out the danger of possible loss of life.

Caudle Branded Honest Man Of Washington Mess

"I know enough about the White House to blow it so high it would be another satellite in the orbit and the force of gravity would never bring it back to earth."

He testified also that McGrath informed him "the same White House clique" which he said brought about his dismissal "were also after him (McGrath)." McGrath was fired last April.

Chelf and Keating hailed as "new evidence" Caudle's testimony that he had obtained McGrath's permission to accept a $5,000 commission on the sale of an airplane.

Chelf and Keating said the airplane deal "purportedly was a factor" in Caudle's dismissal, but the new evidence "clearly indicates that he had prior approval from the Atty. Gen. McGrath."

Bigger Faster Ships Speed Cargoes Around The World

By CLARKE BEACH
Newsfeatures Writer
WASHINGTON—America's merchant marine is about to enter a contender for top honors among the world's cargo carriers.
The first of the new Mariner class of ships, the S. S. Keystone Mariner, will breast the seas in September. The Maritime Administration (MA), which is having the ships built, says they will be the largest and fastest cargo carriers afloat.
Their speed will be about 22 knots (approximately 26 land miles per hour) compared with 10 knots for the Liberty ships of World War II. They will carry 15,000 tons of cargo compared with 10,000 tons for the Liberty ships. MA spokesmen say their efficiency will give them a great advantage over all foreign competition.

Part of Defense Set-up
The development of both the Mariners and the liner United States was spurred by defense needs. With submarines becoming faster and more deadly, faster ships are needed to carry troops and supplies safely across the seas in wartime.
The MA designed the new vessels with the cooperation of the shipping industry. The extra speed built and many of the features of the Mariner class vessels are chargeable to defense. The MA will sell the vessels to private operators, deducting the extra defense cost and then charging whatever price the ship-owners would pay to have them built in foreign yards.
Congress has provided $350 million for the construction of 35 Mariners. Contracts for five ships were awarded to each of seven shipyards on all three coasts.
Seven of the ships have been launched and are now being commissioned. The vessels, given the nicknames of states, are the Keystone (Pa.) Old Colony (Mass.), Old Dominion (Va.), Buckeye (Ohio), Free State (Md.), Cornhusker (Neb.) and Tarheel (N. C.).
The National Shipping Authority (NSA), the operating and defense unit of the MA, will run the vessels until they are sold. No bids have been invited yet since the MA has not determined what a fair price would be. Much hinges on the outcome of the current controversy over the sale price of the S. S. United States.
What Operators Get
NSA uses private companies for the actual work of ship operation, paying the companies their costs plus $75 per day.
It is under these arrangements that the NSA is now operating 300 World War II Victory and Liberty ships—the world's largest cargo fleet under one owner. The vessels are used mainly to transport defense and foreign aid supplies.

After the outbreak of the Korean War 700 of the 2,200 vessels left over from the war and laid up at anchorages, were put into service. With the recent decline in the demand for shipping space, chiefly because of the decrease in foreign aid shipments, 400 of the ships have been put back into their anchorages.

Legend Honored Valley Flooded

WASHINGTON — The flood-devastated little resort town of Lynmouth, on Devon's Bristol Channel, lies in a country steeped in the romance of British history, legend and fiction.

Only a hop-skip-and-jump over the Somerset county line is Doone Valley, setting for Richard Doddridge Blackmore's famous novel, "Lorna Doone."

Less than 100 miles from Lynmouth across England's southwest corner lies Plymouth, whence the Mayflower set sail for America. The way crosses the gloomy waste lands of Exmoor and Dartmoor, still believed by some Devonians to be dangerous at night because of ghosts.

Near Legendary Castle
Tintagel Head in Cornwall, reputed site of King Arthur's Castle, also is less than 100 miles from Lynmouth, observes the National Geographic Society. Off the north coast between Tintagel and Lynmouth is Lundy Island, once sacked by Turkish sea raiders who carried the inhabitants into slavery.

Devonshire's 2,600 square miles make it the third largest English county. Only its coastal areas, cut by many small rivers like the Lyn that caused the trouble at Lynmouth, are subject to flooding during storm and heavy rains. The interior is high.

Sheep and Devon cattle graze the moors in large numbers, the latter producers of the famed Devonshire clotted cream. Tin has been mined since before recorded history. The county also produces silver, lead, some copper, arsenic, manganese and tungsten ores.

That prehistoric man liked Devon's climate, in which grow myrtle, geraniums and heliotrope, is proved by mysterious stone bridges and monuments. Iberians, Celts and Saxons fought for possession. French, Spaniards and Danes raided Devon coasts.

Famous Seaport

In the county's golden age during the reign of Elizabeth, Sir Francis Drake sailed from Plymouth to crush the Spanish Armada. Raleigh, Hawkins, Grenville, Gilbert, and the Antarctic explorer Capt. Robert F. Scott were other Devonian seafaring heroes. Fletcher of Rye invented the fore-and-aft rig, which put the lumbering square-rigged merchant ships of Spain and Holland at the mercy of English sea raiders.

Totnes in Devon is probably the oldest municipality in England. Dartmouth, British counterpart of the United States Naval Academy, lies on the English Channel coast to the south. At Princetown on the moor is one of England's most feared penal establishments.

Devastated Lynmouth has a fortunate twin in Lynton. Situated atop a hill overlooking its flooded sister, it escaped damage. A number of other small villages along the coast are reported to have suffered. British police estimated that up to ninety persons may have lost their lives in the flood.

Aristotle is believed to have been the first to think of logic as the subject for a separate science.

Jackson Convict Story Deplored

LANSING (AP)—The revelation that Pete Mahoney, former Detroit gambler, had been transferred out of Southern Michigan Prison, wrecked an important criminal investigation, Corrections Commissioner Ernest C. Brooks said.

Attorney General Frank G. Millard revealed Friday that Mahoney had been sent to a prison conservation camp near Brighton on direct orders of Brooks. Millard accused Brooks of interfering with prison operations.

Brooks would not identify the case which he said was "wrecked," but there were strong indications it was the unsolved murder of State Senator Warren G. Hooper of Albion in 1945.

Mahoney was one of four convicted of conspiracy in the murder, but no one was ever indicted for the actual crime. Mahoney's conviction was upset by the state supreme court. He now is serving a sentence for robbery.

Brooks' statement lent credence to the speculation by saying that Mahoney "has been questioned many times before" by state police on the case involved.

Brooks said that he believed Mahoney had information on the case and that "he might talk if he was removed from the influence of other prisoners at Jackson."

"The attorney general's cheap political attack," Brooks said, "has wrecked any chance of that. If Mahoney knows anything, he won't tell it while Millard has him spread all over page one." The commissioner said that "transfers for such reasons are routine and are within the discretion of the commissioner."

Ruark Defends Senator Nixon

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—I spent the entire weekend trying to get upset over Dick Nixon's side-bar slush fund, which seems to be 18 grand worth of aid and assistance from constituents to keep the boy in stamps and stationery.

You would think he engineered the great train robbery, from all the outcry, and all he did is what all the boys do. It is a well-known fact that a congressman cannot live on his salary and expenses. Some steal; others conduct private practices outside the House and Senate; others do favors for under-the-table money; some just accept the odd buck from well-wishing neighbors.

Before you rear back and holler you must realize that there is no intrinsic difference between the acceptance of campaign funds and the acceptance of bribes and bribes of dough from friends to keep the ship of state in station. Right now, private individuals and corporations have given millions to the cause of Adlai Stevenson and also Ike Eisenhower.

Truman Owed Favors

They are, in a word, trying to bet on the eventuality of one or the other in the big seat. They are trying to buy favor, if you want to be brutal. This one wants an ambassadorship. The other one wants something in the cabinet. The other wants a break on his business. The tiny contributor, the jot-and-tittle kid, wants to get his cousin into the civil service or sew up the local postoffice for himself. If this is bribery, if this is serving outside interests, then no President ever went into office without paying off big to the people who subsidized him in his fight.

Truman, undoubtedly sneering happily at the well-delivered smear on Dick Nixon, owed more favors to more people than anybody you met lately. The payoff of those favors resulted in the dirtiest political regime ever registered for the records. Even Harry's trusted friends turned out to be brazen influence peddlers and shell-game operators. His doctor speculated in grain. Harry's Vaughan specialized in serving the five-percenters. Harry's income-tax appointees are severely in jail.

Harry himself has tucked away a non-accountable fifty thou per annum, since his election. In a way we are contributing to Harry's extra security, his heavy expenses. Last Saturday night I saw his daughter on television with Jimmy Durante, and I presume for dough. As a singer, actress, or comedienne she couldn't buy her way into the joint unless she was trading on the White House. What is all this nonsense about Dick Nixon's sideways take?

No Heinous Crime

Truman used to keep Bess working in his office, for dough, when he was a senator. Mrs. Roosevelt used her husband's office for personal gain. Estes Kefauver, the Lincolnian candidate for the people's acclaim, conducted his TV crime-busting series on a sponsored (for dough) program, and rushed his purely governmental memoirs into magazine and book print (for dough) before the egg was dry on Frank Costello's face.

In light of precedent it would seem that if a few well-meaning Californians wanted to chip in the $500 here and the $200 yonder to keep Nixon solvent, while he went about the expensive business of representing his state and busting Communists on the side, he is less guilty of heinous crime than of practicality.

It is possible today for a hard-working congressman to steal big if he wants to sell his knowledge and influence. I doubt very much if the 18 grand they accuse Nixon of using to further the activity of his office is a price sufficiently large to tempt the legislator off the straight, slim path of public service. Truman's boys do it bigger and better. Some have been known to push off for South America with carpetbags full of it.

If the criticism of Nixon gets very bitter from the Democratic side, I would like to remind them momentarily of Uncle Will O'Dwyer, the ambassador to Mexico. Bill is on the record as saying he had to take money from friends to buy his wife's clothes, so's he could be an ambassador under a cloud, an emissary who finds it convenient not to come home. I shouldn't brood much over Nixon's 18 grand, if I were you. Bigger birds are flying by unnoticed, while they squash the gnats with utmost sound and frequent fury.

Dowagiac Mayor Doctor-Of-Year

DETROIT (AP)—Dowagiac's mayor—Dr. L. Sherman Loupee—is Michigan's family doctor of the year.

The veteran of nearly half a century of medical practice in Michigan received the title of "Michigan's Foremost Family Physician of 1952".

It is an annual designation of the Michigan State Medical society in recognition of the general practitioner.

Dr. Loupee, who is in his 80s, looks back on "a good life"—but insists also on looking ahead to ward more, too.

"Never look backward," he said. "When you find yourself growing reminiscent and talkative, living in the past, it's time to quit. Until then, forget retirement. As for me, I'll never retire."

Dr. Loupee has engaged in small town general practice ever since he hung out his shingle in 1904.

A busy man, nevertheless he found time to spend ten years as a state legislator. He served in the legislature from 1939 to 1949.

Dr. Loupee advises the young doctor to go into small town practice. "Look for your greatest rewards in peace, personal satisfaction and the opportunity for service," he said.

Girl Reporter At Home In Jets, Tanks Or Subs

MODERN NELLIE BLY — Air Force officers adjust a parachute on Esther Clark, Phoenix Gazette reporter, before one of her flights in a military plane.

AP Newsfeatures

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Esther Clark, ace feature writer for the Phoenix Gazette, feels she's about ready for combat duty after riding in a B-47 stratojet, T-33 jet trainer, submarine, army tank, blimp and helicopter.

In addition, the attractive newswoman has shot a machine gun from the hip and scored a bullseye and four new-perfect hits in a round of five during rifle target practice at the Arizona National Guard grounds.

Although her beat includes two Air Force bases and a Navy installation here, Esther isn't merely a military reporter. She's church editor of the Gazette and won the Phoenix Elks Lodge 1950 award for community and state service. The award honored her for a series on an Adopt-A-Family Christmas Fund promotion sponsored by the newspaper and Phoenix Community council.

Her latest military exploit, one of several "first" for a newswoman, was the B-47 ride at 600 miles an hour at 32,000 feet altitude out of Wichita Air Force Base in Kansas.

Streaking through the stratosphere for two hours and 40 minutes over three states was an unforgettable thrill for Mrs. Clark, who rode in the nose of the six-engine jet bomber.

She sat in the space usually occupied by the navigator-bombardier-radar operator of the three-man crew.

Last fall Esther, a native of Denver, where she began her newspaper career on the Catholic Register, spent a day at sea on a shakedown cruise of the recommissioned submarine, U.S.S. Aspro.

She's one of the few women ever to have a full day's cruise, including diving operations, on a sub. Why does she fly in the speedy planes and ride in submarines? She explains:

"There's a thrill in giving the public a first hand account of how the nation's first line defenders train and work."

The Gazette reporter, who's been on the staff seven years, is termed "top notch" by her managing editor, R. W. Barry. He says: "What Esther has done proves there's a place in the city room for women who can go out on any assignment and make good on it."

The versatile newswoman began her flight exploits in a helicopter on a telephone linebreak testing mission from Phoenix over the White Tank mountains. Her most vivid memory of this ride was her outside position with no canopy or side bars and only a narrow safety belt for protection in steep banks over the telephone wires.

Ferry Vacationland Goes Into Drydock For Autumn Checkup

LANSING (AP)—The new Straits of Mackinac ferry, the Vacationland, is in drydock for a checkup. State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler reported.

The ice-breaking motorship has been in service since January, and "has been operating very satisfactorily from a mechanical standpoint," Ziegler said.

The checkup, being done at the Great Lakes Engineering Works in River Rouge where the ship was built, is "to make certain everything is in readiness for the winter time operation of the ship," Ziegler said.

$207,200 For Picture

LONDON (AP)—Lord Bruce, eldest son of the Earl of Elgin, said that New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art paid his father 74,000 pounds ($207,200) for the Velasquez equestrian portrait now on exhibit at the museum.

G. B. Shaw Estate Flops As Museum

LONDON (AP)—Shaw's Corner, for four decades the home of George Bernard Shaw, has flopped as a museum and may be offered for rent.

A spokesman for Britain's National Trust, said the 251-year-old estate at Ayot St. Lawrence is drawing barely 20 visitors a day at two shillings (28 cents) a head.

This modest income falls far short of the 25 pounds ($70) a week it costs to run the place. When the late great playwright died two years ago at the age of 94 he left the house to the trust with no endowment for its upkeep.

ing. Trent said he couldn't make the $30 weekly payments because "I have been taken for a sucker and I am broke."

Bride Won By Mail; No Alimony, Gets Jail

CINCINNATI (AP)—Le Cameron Trent, 61, of nearby Loveland, was in jail because he failed to keep up alimony payments to the British bride he wooed and won by mail.

And, if Trent keeps his word, it will be a long stay. "I'll stay in jail until it rots," he shouted yesterday.

Trent married Olga Julia Trent, a native of Hull, England, in June, 1951, after a courtship by mail. They separated last January when she tried to end her life by shoot-

Mere Title Often Ruins Good Movie

By JAMES BACON
(For vacationing Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What's the most important single factor in the box office success of a movie stars, director or story?

None of those, I say, and I find some important Hollywood people who agree with me that a picture often makes or loses a buck solely on its title.

Customers Confused

Last year, MGM made a highly entertaining picture called "Angels in the Outfield." Critics liked it, and apparently most who saw it liked it. But it didn't do business and MGM blames the title. The story was a fantasy that should have appealed to baseball fans and non-baseball fans alike. However, the title tabbed it as all-baseball and although the game is our national pastime, baseball pictures generally are not strong box office.

One of the year's best suspense films was a sleeper made by Paramount called "The Atomic City." The picture had no big names, but the word-of-mouth should have brought the customers in. Paramount changed the title midway in the run to "19 Elevated St." It apparently only confused the customers.

Abrupt title-changing, incidentally, is the chronic despair of publicity departments. They spend months publicizing a picture under one title, only to have it open under another. If a picture fails, it's seldom the stars' or director's fault the publicity people moan. The press agents usually get blamed for not selling the picture properly.

Alliteration Clicks

Doing a little research on this subject, I contacted Arthur Hornblow Jr., one of MGM's top money producers.

"You couldn't have come to a more inept person," said Hornblow. "I'm the fellow who produced 'The Asphalt Jungle' and held out against a change of title."

That picture was one of the year's best a few seasons ago. It was nominated for an Academy Award, but it never did business.

"I'm convinced that alliteration is the key to title success," remarked Hornblow. He then reeled off his best money-making successes: "Ruggles of Red Gap," "Waikiki Wedding," "I Wanted Wings," "Weekend at the Waldorf," "Cat and the Canary" and "The Major and The Minor."

Only days after I talked with him, he changed the title of his current picture with Esther Williams. Originally called "One-Piece Bath Suit," it henceforth will be known as "Million Dollar Mermaid."

Senator Taft Addresses U. P. Women's Clubs Luncheon

"Principles, not personalities, are important in the coming presidential election," Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) yesterday told members of Upper Michigan Women's clubs at their district convention here.

A featured speaker at the luncheon in the Delta Hotel, Senator Taft flew here from Detroit to make a major political campaign speech, one of his first outside his home state.

Citing that getting out the vote is important, Senator Taft told assembled Upper Michigan Women's club members that he was "glad to support the candidacies of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and 'Dick' Nixon."

The senior Ohio Senator, who was introduced by Mrs. Harry W. Mertins, president of the Upper Michigan Federation, said democratic government was not possible unless the people vote. "Otherwise minority and pressure groups can gain much influence," he explained.

"We want people with a national interest to vote," the Ohio senator urged. He noted that "people are not interested in political stories in newspapers and 'heavy' radio programs, but said television is reaching into this group of disinterested persons. The Ohio senator, who was a leading contender for the GOP presidential nomination at Chicago, asked that Republicans form clubs wherever they are members of other organizations.

"We would have had 85 million instead of 50 million votes cast in the 1948 election if Americans voted as the British do," Taft

Creative Arts Workshop Is Feature Of Club Convention

A creative arts workshop, the first in the promotion of gerontology in Michigan was held yesterday afternoon in William Bonifas Memorial gymnasium as one of the outstanding features of the Upper Peninsula Federation of Women's Clubs convention program.

The workshop was arranged by the art committee of the Escanaba Woman's Club headed by Mrs. T. M. Cassidy and Mrs. Victor Powers and the gerontology committee of which Mrs. John J. Walsh is state chairman.

Fascinating handicrafts which made the woman with little time to herself wish for a little leisure to engage in them were shown by a group of Escanaba and Gladstone residents who demonstrated and explained the methods of their particular work.

In the active demonstration were Mrs. William Perkins, oil painting and the making of mobiles; Mrs. Bernard Prusak, block printing and stenciling; Mrs. Ella Carlson, hooked rugs; Mrs. Thaxter Shaw, copper jewelry; Mrs. E. G. Harkins Jr., work with yarns; Mrs. Henry A. Donnelly, children's books; A. E. Rose, wood carving; Mrs. William Salminen, the use of loom and weaving; M. E. Vandenberg, the making of knives, keys and other similar articles; Mrs. John Luecke, who gave valuable advice to the many women who crowded around the display of her beautiful garden and house plants; Mrs. Charles Gessner, creative embroidery; Mrs. Richard O. Flath, ceramics; Mrs. Henry A. Peterson, who has one of the largest button collections in the country; and Mrs. Otto Hult, woodwork.

Art Group Of Club
In addition to these members of the art group of the Escanaba Woman's Club, including Mrs. M. R. Oslund, Mrs. Powers, Mrs. W. J. Anthony and Miss Barbara Boyce, demonstrated painting in various mediums.

Introductory talks on the workshop were given at the morning session by Mrs. Cassidy and at the afternoon session by Mrs. Walsh.

"As a result of an increase in life expectancy and a decrease in employment opportunities for older people, many of them have acquired much leisure time but lack the satisfying activities associated with retirement," Mrs. Cassidy said, in part. "The resultant loss of human resources and the emptiness in the lives of many of our older citizens creates a need for planned activity for this group."

Many older people are anxious to keep active, since activity is a release from boredom, but are not familiar with the possibilities and therefore welcome help.

"We have planned a program of purposeful activity to interpret to the clubs of the Upper Peninsula and to our own community the relationship of creative activity to gerontology."

State Chairman's Report
"Gerontology. What is it, you ask; especially if you were unable to find the definition in your dictionary," Mrs. Walsh said in opening her report as state chairman of the committee. "It is merely a long word applied to a common phenomena—the science of aging. And why a special department? Because our pattern of life is changing. Decreased infant mortality, improved general public

Mrs. A. A. Mitchell New President Of District Federation

Mrs. A. A. Mitchell of Iron Mountain was elected president of the Upper Peninsula Federation of Women's Clubs at the annual business session of the 35th annual convention which closed today. She succeeds Mrs. Harry W. Mertins of Iron River.

Mrs. Elmer J. Oas of Bessemer is 1st vice president; Mrs. Steve Canavara of Norway, 2nd vice president; Mrs. S. J. Bessalo of Negaunee, secretary; Mrs. E. E. Eronan of Menominee, treasurer; and Mrs. A. J. Wagner of Menominee, Upper Peninsula nominating chairman.

A tentative invitation to hold the 1953 convention in the Copper Country was extended by the Twentieth Century Club of Hancock and the Houghton Woman's Club.

"This morning's program opened with a Presidents' Institute at 7:30 at the Sherman Hotel attended by 32 club presidents."

The final convention session was held at the Bonifas Auditorium with Mrs. H. W. Mertins presiding. The invocation was given by the Rev. Joseph S. Dickson of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Presentation of the new officers was followed by a parliamentary law workshop conducted by Mrs. Joseph Kangary, a talk on civil defense by Mrs. Norton H. Pearl, regional director, a forum, "Looking Forward" presented by district officers and chairmen, and an entertaining and highly informative travel talk, "Europe's People Today," by Miss Lucille Gessner.

The closing luncheon of the convention was held at Memorial Methodist Church in Gladstone.

Dr. Sponberg Speaker At Club Convention Banquet

A forceful and inspiring address on the topic, "On the Plains of Hesitation" was delivered by Dr. Harold E. Sponberg, assistant director of placement at Michigan State College, at last night's convention banquet of the Upper Peninsula Federation of Women's Clubs at the House of Ludington.

Dr. Sponberg, who used incidents of every day life to emphasize his points, stressed in his introduction the concepts of the Fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man and the dignity of the individual. He urged the Federated club women to continue their program of action, citing pioneer days which he said were "characterized by freedom to take responsibility."

The problem of preparing our youth for tomorrow must be undertaken in the home, in the school through support and interest, and in the church through moral and spiritual values, the speaker said.

In the promotion of freedom, as an objective of the Federated Clubs he stressed the need of a positive stand, declaring that the "fiber of America will never buckle except from lethargy and a spirit of 'don't-care' from within." He pointed out that every individual can be a salesman for democracy by setting and following, particularly in our schools, a pattern based on the history and heritage of our country.

"We need a realistic insight into what America means to train future salesmen of democracy" he declared.

Participation In Civic Life
"You cannot keep out of economic trouble by spending more than you have," was another pertinent observation made by Dr. Sponberg, "and you cannot help man by doing permanently for him what he should do himself. I say again you must start from the ground roots up."

Touching on the club woman's participation in civic life, he outlined the diversified interests and influences of organized club workers.

"The heritage of America is the right to be wrong," he continued, citing Communist activities in this country, "but the paradox of a free society is 'Do you keep freedom to end freedom?'"

"We must follow the spirit of the Great Master of 2000 years ago," he said in closing, "a lesson we have not quite learned and not quite forgotten. Man's humanity to man, his love of God and his respect for self are the basic truths of life. We will press on to a new and greater frontier, not a physical frontier, but one of human relations, for the preservation of all that is good in our American heritage."

Music On Program
Toastermaster of the program of the banquet marked by a capacity attendance was Mrs. H. W. Mertins. The program included vocal selections, "Let My Song Fill Your Heart," Ernest Song, and "One Fine Day" from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" sung in Italian, by Mrs. Virginia Gossan, gifted lyric soprano, who is a new comer to Escanaba. Mrs. M. H. Garrard Jr. was her accompanist. Mrs. Gossan responded with a Victor Herbert encore. Dinner music was played by Bill Hewitt, accordionist.

Colorful harvest centerpieces were used on the tables, and attractive northwoods place cards were on a birds eye veneer backing.

Mrs. R. I. C. Prout, General Federation officer, was presented by the club women with a gift. Mrs. Francis Furlong making the presentation.

Herbeck-Walenski
Miss Donna Mae Herbeck and James Walenski were married Sept. 6 at 9 a. m. at St. Wilfrid's Church in Green Bay. The Rev. Michael Kain offered the mass. The bride's mother is Mrs. Marie DeFant, 2103—5th Ave. N., Escanaba.

Miss Herbeck's wedding gown was of white marquisette over satin. The nylon yoke was edged in Chantilly lace to form a bertha and the bouffant skirt cascaded to a long cathedral train fashioned with an apron of matching lace. A headband of rolled net caught at intervals with bands of satin and seed pearls held the illusion veil. The bride carried a white orchid and lilies of the valley on her prayer book, a gift from her grandmother, Mrs. Janette Zeutzius.

The bride's father, Clarence Herbeck, gave her in marriage. Attending the bride were the Misses Louis Buntman and Patricia Benz, Harold Neville Jr. was best man, Ronald Adrianson was the other attendant.

Members of the wedding party were invited to breakfast at the Strela home. The immediate families were served dinner at the Eagles, and the bride's mother gave the wedding reception at the VFW hall. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Escanaba, the bride's brother-in-law and sister.

'Many Greet Taft On Visit To Gladstone

Senator Robert A. Taft, Ohio, Republican leader in Congress, visited Gladstone yesterday while in Delta county campaigning for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Republican presidential candidate.

Senator Taft visited the Northwestern Veneer and Plywood Corporation and standing near one of the lathes spoke briefly to employees.

Over 800 students greeted him in front of the Gladstone Junior High school. Speaking over a public address system set up for the occasion the Senator reminded the children of their future priceless American heritage, the right to vote as they desire.

He pointed out that only a little more than half of the nation's 85 million eligible voters exercised that privilege in 1948. He urged them to remind their parents to vote, regardless of what ticket they voted. Naturally he urged support of the candidacies of Gen. D. D. Eisenhower, his running mate Senator Nixon, and Charles Potter, who is seeking a seat in the senate. He suggested students pay attention to all issues, even those relating to school.

Senator Taft was introduced by Victor A. Knox, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., candidate for representative.

Ferry Service Resumes Here

Carferry service from Manistique to Frankfort was resumed this week after settlement of the 79-day strike which kept most of the Great Lakes ferry boats in dock since July 1.

The schedule of a daily 3 p. m. trip from Manistique went back in force with the first post-strike departure here Monday.

Only two ferry lines returned to operation after agreement was reached on Sept. 19 between the striking Great Lakes Licensed Officers Organization and the railroad companies.

One of the two is the local Ann Arbor Railroad, the other is the Wabash Railroad System which operates ferries at St. Clair, Mich.

The Ann Arbor will continue to carry passengers and automobiles on its carferries as it formerly did, according to Arthur D. Thorp, local commercial agent for the railroad.

The wage question, one of the disputes in the strike, is now being arbitrated while the railroad carferries are in operation. All other points of dispute have been settled, the local official said.

The strike is continuing against the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Grand Trunk railroads.

Real Push-Button War Blasts Foe ---

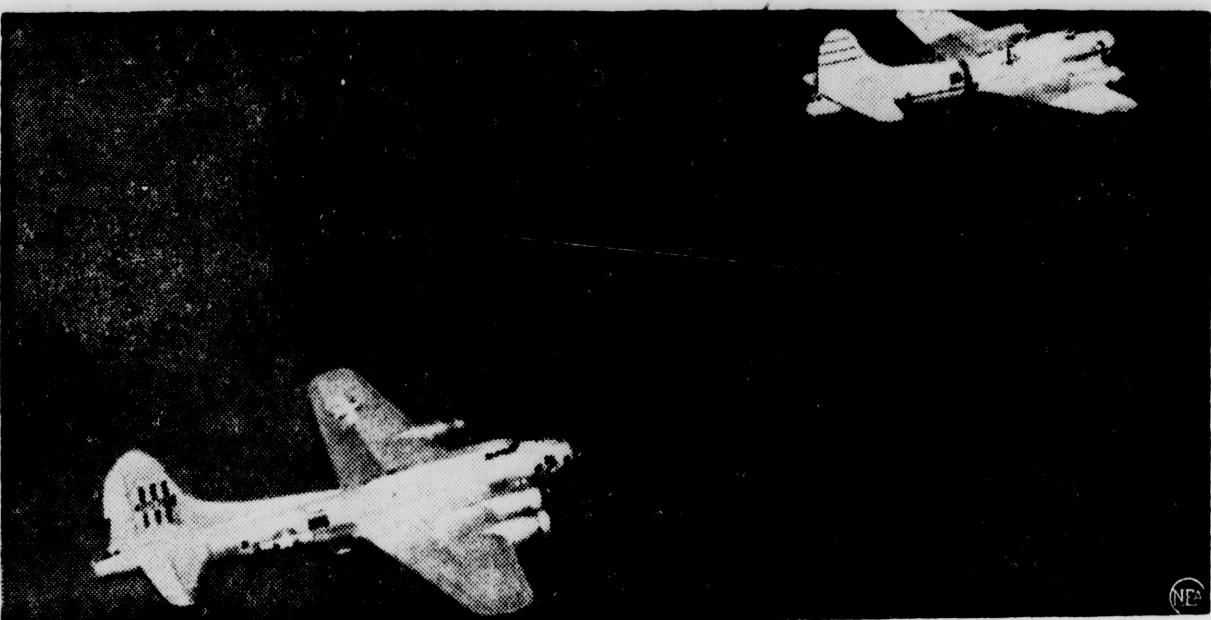

When the U. S. Navy used guided missiles to bombard Korean enemy targets 150 miles away, it was the pay-off on hundreds of experiments in "push-button" warfare. Pictures below, taken during those experiments, show just how guided missiles are used. Essentially, the routine is simple. A deck controller manipulates electronic instruments to take the pilotless drone plane off the carrier's decks into the air. When the drone, guided from the deck, reaches 500 feet altitude, the "mother" plane, which has been circling above, takes over. It guides the missile plane onto the target, hovering safely above enemy flak range. On the drone is a television transmitter. TV receivers on the mother plane and the carrier enable officers to follow every second of the drone's flight. In actual combat, the drone was an obsolescent Hellcat fighter, carrying a 2000-pound bomb. It was guided by two AD-2 Douglas attack planes, one on the deck of the carrier USS Boxer, the other aloft as the "mother" plane. Each was loaded with secret electronic equipment.

This is the heart of "push-button" warfare. A pilot, manipulating buttons on electronic switch-boxes like the ones seen in the photo, above, guides a pilotless Hellcat fighter plane along a carrier's deck and into the air. At proper altitude, pilot of mother plane, with a similar "keyboard" before him, takes over the robot plane and guides it to its target. Robot pilot here is Lt. Comdr. W. G. Maurer.

Here, as awe-struck crewmen watch, robot plane is catapulted into the air by remote control.

The drone plane, right, soars on course to the target, guided by the mother plane at its rear.

Stengel Retire? He May Be Another Mack

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — For two years there has been talk of Charles Dillon Stengel retiring should the Yankees fail to win the pennant.

If Casey Stengel waits for the New York Yankees to lose, he may be around as long as Connie Mack, and Mr. Mack was the only manager the Athletics ever had for 50 years. Ol' Case can't quit for winning.

Stengel is already talking about next year's Yankees, will be back as long as Del Webb wants him. Although 62 and a millionaire, baseball shoes will have to be cut off the funniest bloke who ever got serious about the game. If he were out of organized baseball, he'd be managing semi-professionals in Glendale, Calif. Indeed, he scouts and advises youngsters and speaks of baseball in southern California throughout the entire off-season.

Another flag is fairly certain to spell a fourth consecutive world championship for the Bronx party. If the Yankees do it again in 1953 and once more mop up in the World Series, Stengel will have accomplished a managerial feat that could not be matched even by Joe McCarthy with the same club.

The opportunity to top that alone would bring Stengel back, such is his affection for the game. From his kid days in Kansas City, he only wanted to play baseball. His playing days behind him, he sought to remain in it. Now his goal is to compile the finest record ever turned in by a manager.

Ruth And DiMaggio

There is no telling how many straight pennants the Yankees will win. Not since Mickey Cochrane's Tigers of 1933-34-35 has an outfit been able to assemble a group capable of giving them sustained trouble.

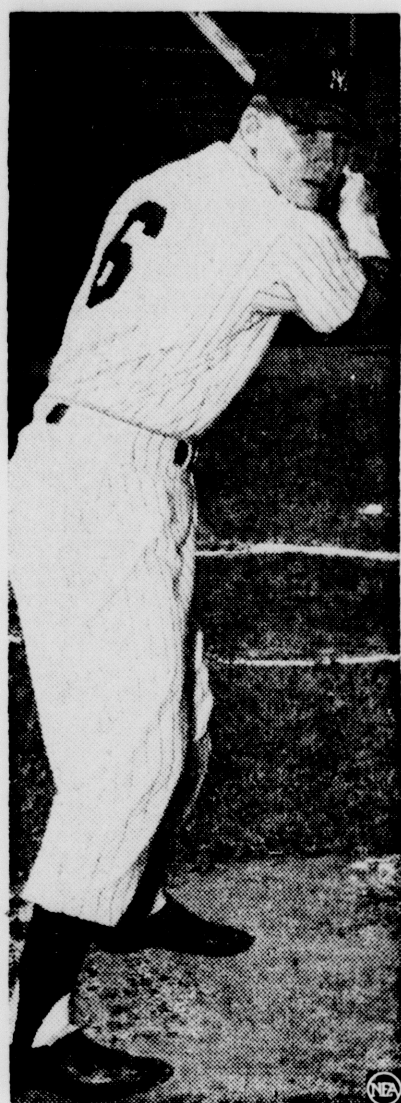

Since Babe Ruth first put them across in '21, the Yankees have always had a big player, and they have thoroughly demonstrated that one man can be the difference.

This would be the Yankees' 19th pennant in 32 years, and only one of them was won without Ruth or Joe DiMaggio, and that in a war year. Ruth rocked the ball out of the park for eight flags. DiMaggio led the side to 10. As much authority as he packed, not even Lou Gehrig could carry the club in the three years in between.

Now the Yankees are doing it with Mickey Charles Mantle, who had a hand in the one of last season while being schooled by DiMaggio.

Mantle will become of age barely in time to vote in the presidential election. The Oklahoma Kid is a tremendous ball player at 20.

Mantle turns himself on as a switch hitter, and opposing pitchers still are trying to find out how to turn him off as he belted the bejabbers out of what was known as the sophomore jinx. Unquestionably the greatest turn-around power hitter in history, young Mantle returned for the Yankees' final series at the Stadium—against the A's—with 11 home runs from the right side of the plate and 10 from the left. The perfectly-balanced bomber, Mantle was batting .308 and leading the club in doubles with 32, triples with five and total bases with 263. The Mick had fanned 104 times, but big swingers always are among the leaders in strikeouts, and he can't miss cutting his down.

Perhaps the fastest man in the game, he had fully qualified as DiMaggio's successor by becoming an accomplished center fielder, where the job is most difficult because of the late-afternoon shadows at the Stadium.

Imagine what kind of a ball player he'll be when he grows up. Ruth, DiMaggio and now Mantle.

It has been tough enough on the others down through the years.

Now the Yankees have Mickey Mantle busting home runs from either side of the plate.

Emeralds Seek Fourth Straight Grid Victory

MANISTIQUE—The Manistique Emeralds, inspired and fresh from their 7-0 edging of a powerful Gladstone eleven last Saturday, are set to make a vigorous try for their fourth successive win when they meet Newberry here under the lights tomorrow night.

Game time is 8:30 at Hall Stadium.

Coach Dick Bonifas was working his charges this week for more sustained blocking and sharper punting to go with what the Emeralds learned and showed in the way of pass and line defense in Saturday's thriller in Gladstone.

Newberry, with one victory, one defeat and one tie behind it, is reportedly even matched in weight with the Emerald aggregation. But Coach Bonifas isn't expecting a walk-away victory.

No Injuries

The Manistique team will have a full staff with no injuries keeping regulars on the bench. A few minor bruises suffered in drills this week by Ray Cummings, Earl Johnson and Bob Smith won't hamper their prospects of seeing action in the Friday game, the third home stand for the Emeralds.

Although impressed with his boys' superlative pass defense which kept a blanket over the Braves and the tenacity of the defensive line, the Manistique mentor was sending the gridders through relentless drills and rugged conditioning.

Special attention was being directed to punting with Bob McNamara, stellar left half, developing his talent in that line.

Coach Bonifas praised the work of guard Orville Erickson and center Skip Corson in last Saturday's game. Sophomore Corson, who proved himself a fine and reliable center according to Coach Bonifas, played a full game at offensive center.

Starting Lineup

Changes in last week's lineup are moving Fritz Laurion to left end for more pass receiving and Bill Holms to part-time right half in place of Cummings who showed himself a good defensive back.

The tentative starting line-up for the Emeralds:

Ends—Fritz Laurion and Wayne Rice; Tackles—Bill Ekdahl and Bob Nelson; Guards—Orville Erickson and Warren LaBar; Cen-

Reporting back in uniform this week was fullback Bob Smith who suffered a bruised thigh muscle and back before the season-opener with Ishpeming. Although recovered now, it is doubtful that he'll see action this Saturday.

New Grid Coach At Rock School

ROCK—The Rock Little Giants are operating under the guidance of a new mentor this year, Noel E. Winn of Whitewater, Wis., who succeeds Victor Mankiewicz, science and math teacher at Rock High School.

Winn, who is also agriculture and industrial arts teacher, received his bachelor of science degree at Stout Institute in Menomonie, Wis., majoring in industrial arts. Since graduating Winn has coached football, basketball, track, golf and baseball and comes to Rock with an enviable record backed by long experience in the coaching field.

Winn previously coached at Jackson, Mich. and Elgin, Ill. At Rock Winn is training a new grid squad made up largely of freshmen and sophomores. Winn is looking to the future and expects to field a strong team in several years.

Winn is the father of two boys, the eldest serving with the U. S. Navy. Active in community life, he plays sax in the Rock Legion band and is a member of the Lions Club.

Spartans On Spot In Saturday Game

By ROBERT E. VOGES
EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State's football team is in the position of a schoolboy who is first given a high mark and then told to pass an examination.

Coach Biggie Munn's outfit was rated the top team in the country in the pre-season Associated Press poll.

On Saturday Michigan State meets Michigan and nearly 100,000 fans will crowd into the big Hollywood-like bowl at Ann Arbor to see how well the Munnmen pass their first test of the season.

When it comes to football the two sister institutions, 60 miles apart, love each other like Cain and Abel.

Pendulum Swings
For a number of years Michigan's powerful teams whipped their country cousins with boring regularity. But during the last two seasons the power pendulum swung toward Michigan State and last year MSC won 25-0.

Munn has been outspokenly irritated by the writers who have pictured his 1952 outfit as a bunch of world-beaters.

"They must be talking about last year's team," he insists. "Most of those guys have never even seen us work out. They read each other's stuff and think they know all about us."

Michigan State will go against Michigan with a green quarterback and a completely rebuilt offensive line.

Vet Quarterback

Michigan will have veteran Ted Topor calling the signals. Tom Yewcie, a junior who went in mostly to punt last season, will be directing Munn's varied offense.

Munn has been trying to build a light, fast offensive line. He's patched his forward wall together from second string offensive players from last year and a few men from his defensive outfit.

Michigan State's two platoon backfield, which provided the one-two punch for an unbeaten 1951 season, has returned intact. And Munn has third string backs who would be varsity players on almost any other outfit.

The defensive life is solid with veterans.

If his kid quarterback and his green offensive line come through, Munn should make it three in a row over Michigan.

Big Ten Gridders Ease Off In Practice Drills

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Ten football squads eased off in practice sessions in most cases today to await tough non-conference battles this weekend.

Only one league game was scheduled, Indiana at Ohio State Saturday.

Northwestern already was in Los Angeles getting ready to tangle with Southern California Friday night.

The Wildcats received bad news on arrival at Los Angeles. A telegram notified coaches that Dan Katchaturoff, 230-pound first string right guard, would not be allowed to play because of scholastic difficulties. The Trojans have been installed as seven point favorites.

Toothless Tigers May Set More New Records

DETROIT (AP) — Though only three more games remain, the Detroit Tigers still may set another record or two.

In the first place, there was a good chance that even fewer than the 850 loyal fans who turned out for yesterday's game would be in Briggs Stadium for today's finale with the St. Louis Browns. If the figure dropped off more than 120 that would be a record.

In the second place, another defeat—the Tigers lost 7-4 to the Browns yesterday—would make it nine shellackings in what would be a record for them this year.

Detroit started off the season with eight straight lickings. It looked for a while yesterday as though the latest losing streak would end at the same mark. The Tigers, paced by rookie Russ Sullivan's two-run homer, got off to a four-run lead in the first inning. But the Browns kept picking away at starting pitcher Bud Black and reliever Ted Gray until that lead was dissipated. The payoff blow was a pinch-hit double by former Tiger Dick Kryhoski that drove in two runs in the eighth.

Yesterday's crowd was the second smallest since Briggs Stadium was enlarged to its present capacity in 1937. The lowest paid figure was in 1942, and St. Louis was the opposition then.

Hal Newhouser was looking for his 200th major league win in today's game. St. Louis' scheduled starter was Dick Littlefield, an ex-Tiger.

Cleveland closes out the season here with games Saturday and Sunday.

Bone Of Contention Not Factor This Grid Season

By JOHN F. MAYHEW
ANN ARBOR (AP)—A bone of contention has been removed from the Michigan-Michigan State football rivalry this year.

When the two teams open the season here Saturday, it will be the opener for both teams, in contrast to the past two seasons when the Spartans opened a week early by special consent of the Western Conference.

The schedule of 1950 and 1951, under which the MSC team opened with Oregon State and a week later, played Michigan its first game, drew divergent contentions from athletic officials of both schools.

It was the opinion of Michigan Athletic Director Fritz Crisler that the opportunity to iron out kinks in a game before tackling Michigan was a great advantage to Michigan State.

However, MSC Coach Biggie Munn maintained that advantage was largely overcome by the fact that the early game gave Michigan a chance to scout the Spartans before playing them.

Now, the Spartans agreement to play the early game is ended and both teams will be starting from scratch.

Incidentally, the game will mark the last Spartan appearance early on the Michigan schedule. Starting next year, when Michigan State becomes a full-fledged member of the Big Ten eligible to compete for the title, the Michigan-Michigan State game will be moved back to the second from last game on the Michigan schedule.

Spartan Marching Band Has New Look

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State's marching band will feature a "new look" at the Michigan game Saturday.

The band will be sporting new green and white uniforms instead of the former olive drab military-style garb.

White belts, cross straps, and white high hats with green and white plumes will pretty up the uniforms.
